

Supported Independent Living

Help with daily life in a shared or single home, rostered around your plan and the people you live with.

In plain English

- Supported Independent Living (SIL) is help with daily life, from people who are there every day, in a shared or single home.
- SIL is support, not housing. Specialist Disability Accommodation (SDA) is housing, and it is separate from SIL.
- Housing and support are separate agreements, so a person can change SIL provider without losing their home.

Who it suits

A good fit for people who want to live away from family with support on hand every day.

Not sure it is the right one? Our find the right support questions can help, or ask us.

How it is usually funded

Usually funded as SIL in the Core supports part of an NDIS plan. SIL pays for support, never for rent, food or bills.

For a SIL referral, we work with the person, their team and their support coordinator on a proposed Roster of Care: the support needed across a typical week.

Prices are checked against the NDIS Pricing Schedule 2026-27. The NDIA decides what a plan funds, not us.

How to start

1. Tell us three things. Who you are and how to reach you, the person's first name and area, and the support they want.
 2. We reply promptly. With a clear yes, a question, or an honest no.
 3. We meet and plan. With your consent, we meet you and the people you choose.
 4. A plain-language service agreement. What support, when, and at what price. Nothing starts until you are happy with it.
